They state that they were coming down on the right hand side, but had to swing over to the left to try to avoid cutting the Bergstresser car in two, as it was making the turn at the corner on the wrong side. This accounts for the way the Bergstresser car was carried up against the telephone pole.

Missed Their Banquet. The West Side Pinochle club had to forego their annual banquet on Monday evening, for when the members arrived at the banquet place they found that through some mistake on the part of those who were to serve it no provision had been made to serve it that night. After a brief business meeting, they decided to postpone it a week and to hold it in New London, journeying there by automobile.

AT THE AUDITORIUM. Vaudeville and Photoplays.

The special ladies' matinee at the Auditorium theatre on Monday drew a large sized house and the audience was well pleased with the Bill, Izzy's Visit to the New York Winter Garden, presented by the Marcus Musical Attractions company, which is commencing the second week of its Norwich engagement. The three ladies holding lucky coupons were presented a leather rocking chair, a punch bowl and a parased by the comedy company. The scenery used in the production of the Winter Garden was unusually attractive and the electrical effects were original and very appropriate. The many pretty song numbers were intermingled with lively comedy acting on the part of Mike Sacks; the dance numbers were up to the minute and the gowns wern by the girls were beautful. Pretty Marie Gerard, the mechanical doll, made a decided hit with the audience.

The feature photoplay was a three reeler, The Phantom of the Violin, with the popular movie stars, Grace Cunard and Francis Ford. Large audiences attended both performances Monday evening. The entire programme changes on Wednesday and again on Friday. The special ladies' matinee at th

AT DAVIS THEATRE. Vaudeville and Photoplays.

What was hailed as the best that the Davis theatre has had in a long time in music and comedy along vaudeville lines was given Monday at the theatre in the appearance of the Homan Musical Revue. It was a combination of pretty girls and costumes, pretty music, graceful dancing and catchy comedy, in which the work of Walter Morrison, Prince Elwood, Robert Jewett, W. O. Connell, Betty Farrington, Rachel Farrington and others in the company stood out, while the generally well balanced company made all sharers in the enthusiastic applause that they were given. Their bill included a comedy sketch called The Tea Party, followed by the song revue, a parody from the Follies, and a scene from the Quaker Girl.

Report Expected Thereon This Week -Representative Bailey on Sub Committee Drafting It.

It is likely that the committee on cities and boroughs will come to an agreement on its report on the bill agreement on its report on the bill for home rule for cities this week, says the Hartford Times. The drafting of the report has been left with a subcommittee consisting of Representatives Vaill of Winchester, Bailey of Norwich and Devine of Waterbury. It is expected the sub-committee will make its recommendation to the committee early next week so that the bill may be presented to the general as may be presented to the general as-sembly soon. Among the matters which are held in abeyance, pending the committee's action on the home rule bill, is the bill for a commission rule bill, is the bill for a commission form of government for the city of Hartford. If a general home rule bill is reported and becomes law it will not be necessary to pass the commission bill as the people of the city will have ample power to adopt the commission if they want it without going to the general assembly for additional power. It is really desirable that the cimmittee should make a report as soon as possible. The session is rapidly passing and delays now cannot be repaired by an extension of the session beyond the Wednesday after the first Monday in June. That is a constitutional limit and the general assembly is powerless to extend it. It has been the policy of the committee on cities and boroughs to give the has been the policy of the committee on cities and boroughs to give the cities the kind of government which they desire. Sometimes it is difficult to carry out this policy owing to the difference of opinion among representative citizens from the cities as to what the city needed. It may be said that for a number of sessions of the general assembly the committee on cities and boroughs has observed the same policy and that the principle of home rule for cities has been recognized for years.
